Another note on a significant effect when using ...

Another note on a significant effect when using ceramic pipes: in the preparation of drinking water: water demonstrably has a kind of memory. When we drink water, we take in not only the ...

Another note on a significant effect when using ceramic pipes: in the preparation of drinking water: Water demonstrably has a kind of memory. When we drink water, we take in not only the liquid H2O, but also all the information stored in this water - including from those substances that have been filtered out! Some bodies reject water for this reason; one then "likes" to drink less or not at all and may tend toward dehydration. The procedure described here with the help of EM ceramic pipes "overwrites" the remaining information. This is one reason why people and animals generally prefer this water and automatically drink more of it.

For more information: https://t.me/truuinfochannel

It's good.
to be truu.