Prof. Dr. rer. nat. Stefan W. Hockertz (62), is an immunologist, pharmacologist and toxicologist. He was a member of the board of directors of the Fraunhofer Institute. Over the past three years, he became publicly known because he was one of the first scientists to point out the health-damaging consequences of politically ordered health measures, accepting considerable personal disadvantages and attacks on his person in the process. Years later, it has become clear: so far, Hockertz's assessments have not been wrong.

The Swiss private broadcaster QS24 presents the scientist to the public for the first time with his expertise on drinking water contamination by hormones and pharmaceuticals. In short: hormones and pharmaceuticals flow through the human body 90% "unfiltered", then 100% unfiltered through our wastewater treatment plants and ultimately also end up in our tap water. The following video is 30 min. long.

It's good.
to be truu.
